

Biography Francis Perdreau

Opera singer and double bass player, Francis Perdreau is, above all, a musician : a guitarist father, a singer mother, a choir practice during his childhood, the discovery of the electric bass in his teenage years, an academic journey at the Conservatoires of Dijon And Chalon-sur-Saône where he practiced the double bass, lyrical singing, harmony and counterpoint. His love for eclecticism pushes him to engage in many recording projects, as part of concert tours all over France and Europe, in groups or solo. As comfortable in the classical repertoire as in the world of jazz, rock or world music, he has a unique artistic identity.